THE SHANTUNG BUTCHERIES.

We recently printed a detailed account of the alleged butcheries committed among the population of Shantung, who rose in agitation when they were compelled to put up more taxes than , they thought they ought to pay. The alleged atrocities were perpetrated by the Chinese soldiers who were sent to suppress the local trouble. It appears now, from some recent letters from Peking, that the people are not prepared to take all they received without some kind of protest to head-quarters; and at the same time, there is a demand that the official who was responsible for the sending forth of the soldiers should be punished. What will follow remains to be seen. Meanwhile. a large number of refugees from the scene of trouble have arrived en masse in Poking and have taken up their quarters there with a view to seeking admission into an official yamon, so that they can lay the truth of the affair before the highest authstrities. These Shantung refugees found their way first of all to the quarter where their fellow provincials reside and carry on business. By them the refogees were willingly received and lodged. It is well known that the Chinese are very clannish,"and those from the same province or district will act together and stand by each other till the last hour. Then there are many merchants in Poking whose homes are in Shangtung and Shansi, and some of these are influential. There was a general gathering of the clan and a full discussion of all the alleged facts. Theroupon, according to one correspondent's letter, a strongly worded telegram was sent to the Shantung local official responsible for the despatch of the soldiers. The persons interested also discussed the situation and arranged their plans. What will be the ultimate result we cannot safely say, but it may be assumed that little will be accomplished. The Chinese Government, when pressed by foreign Powers, may degrade an official for a few weeks or months, and if the danger is great may behead one, or his substitute, but we think there is little likelihood that the people themselves, when backed by nothing but "moral force," and little of that, can move the Government to any extent. On the other hand, there is not wanting evidence that those things are deprecated in the enpital, for the Government knows well enough that such doeds only increase the

the people.

HERE is probably no medicine made that is relied upon with more implicit confidence than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholora and Diarrhoes Remedy. During the third of a century in which it has been in use, people have learned that it is the one remaily that never fails. For pain in the stomach, diarrhoes or infantile cholora, this remedy has no equal. It has been used in miny serious and dangerous eases and has never been known to fail. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. For sale by all chemists and storekeepers.

REMARKABLE FREQUENCY OF RUNAWAY MATCHES.

Some of the Oddest Cases.

Some twenty years hence's great number of people are going to be engaged in that fearsome game of lucking the family skeleton in the closet and keeping it there; for somobody facetiously says that eloping has become the king of outdoor sports in America. Where, once upon a time, it was played only at infrequent intervals, to-day, if we are to believe the accounts that fill the daily newspapers, it is being taken up by rich and poor alike all over the country. Sometimes it is taken up by rich and poor together, as in the case of the Philadelphi. heiress who ran away a short time ago with a waiter from one of the leading hotels of

An elopement isn't a safe corner stone for a home-and that somebody's happy home is built upon one is no criterionbut what can more distress a parent than that son or daughter has eloped, merely copied the example set by father and

Now, when a poor yoting man runs away with a poor young woman, that is an elopement. When a rich young" man runs away with a poor young woman, that is a development. When a poor young man runs away with a rich young woman, that is an embezzlement. But 'luasmuch as a rose by any other name would smell as sweet, I refrain from intimate charac. terizations and simply note here a few of the oddest elopements that have "bean linotyped in the last year for the delectation of the public.

About ten months ago, a barnstorming theatrical company, then playing the various watertanks and clearings along the Kansas railroads, contained in its roster a young actor who was desperately in love with the ingenue. The latter returned the hero's affection, although her mother, who was also a member of the organization, had expressed her disapproval of the whole affair in numerous concrete outbursts. When the young man, accordingly, dared to ask the mother for the daughter's band. he got, not the hand, but the cold shoulder The levers were in despair, but not for

The next night, while going through their love scene in the second act of the comedy that was being presented, the young man whispered to his sweetheart the mystic words. Let's clope: The girl smiled acquiescence, and while the audience was still applanding on their exit. the fovers were hurrying unnoticed from the stage door in their costumes to the town livery stable. - nil while they sped in'a buggy to the next damlet six miles away, the third act was allowed to proceed as Best it could, with the villain doubling as the young hero and the mother forced by grim fate to take the role just deserted by her

Not less careless than these clopers was a young man who, while playing in a game of baseball last year in a Richmond, Virginia, nine, disappeared during the first half of the fifth inning, while his side was at bat, and it was learned subsequently, of couple had agreed to deceive their parents in this manner. The man, by entering the game, threw the girl's suspicious father off the trail, the latter having been on the

The girl with her father, was a spectator in the grand stand. When the nine of which her future husband was a member which her future husband was a member came in in the fifth innings the girl exclaimed to her parent, "Oh, look! There's blary So and So sitting over there! I'm going to run over and talk to her a minute." The father thought nothing more about it, until, as innings after innings passed, his daughter failed to return. He-looked for Mary So and So, found her, and asked her where his daughter had gone. Mary replied where his daughter had gone. Mary replied in surprise that she had not seen her all the afternoon. 'And then the father for the first time realized that Cupid had called his daughter out at home.

During the last year there were chronicled any number of elopements in autos, only one of which however, bore my particular marks of originality. The elopement in Jersey during the Summer season. The young man in the case was an automobile enthusiast; but not more of one than was the father of the girl. The father liked the young fellow, but hardly regarded him in the light of a son-in-law.

One evening the young man drove his automobile up to his sweetheart's Summer home, and following out a plan he and the WEDNESDAY, 13TH JULY.

girl had agreed upon, asked the father if he felt like giving him a "little speed contest" along the ocean drive. The father agreed that nothing would please him more, and in half an hour both machines were ready for the housh down the coast road. The girl said she would ride in the young man's car. "for a change," and her father smiled his permission.

"It will only be extra weight for you." he remarked to the young man.

'Oh, I don't mind." laughed the latter.

.If the father had known then what the young fellow meant, the speed contest would never have taken place. However, getting ready, the two machines finally chugged into position and were off like a flash on their way past Seabright, Mon-mouth Beach, Low Moor and Galiles. Just before striking the bend in the road near North Long Branch, the young man put on all the speed he could and managed to get a good lead over his sweetheart's father.

At that insent two men jumped into the road with red lanterns, and waving them in a circle in front of them, commanded the father to stop.

The father did stop, admitted that he was breaking all sorts of speed laws, and accepted his discomfiture in good grace.

'Just wait a minute," he told his captors,

'and that other car will be back and then we shall get the whole matter straightened out." He did not see the two men smile.

The other car did not come back—not for two days. When it did, it brought with it two young smiling persons who. more than anything else; wanted a bless you, my children. They got it. Then the father was told that the two constables who had held him up for speeding were college chums of the bridegroom.

The elopement of a professional ballconish with his sweetheart, incidental to a county fair exhibition in Illinois last autumn, was published so widely at the time in the newspapers from one and of the land to the other, that further comment here regarding it is unnecessary .-- Mail and

THE NEW PRIZE RING.

What would the grim, gauntiberoes of the Prize Ring have thought of Monday's glove-fight at Reno among the steep silverbearing bills of Nevada? No doubt a feeling of speechless amazement at the hugeness of the prize money would dome ate their thoughts for a time. They fought their historic battles for a more batful of guineas. and deemed themselves well rewarded for the scars of a long and arduous career if a series of potty economies or the generosity of a patron anabled them lease some small, enug inn and take their case in it until the end. It would be difficult to persuade the ghost of any old. fashioned pugilist that the modern fighting man, even if he is at the top of his profession, deserves a reward running into thousands of pounds (or even tens of thousands, as at Reno) for winning or losing a contest with the " mufflers" on. Having got over his amazoment at the huge carnings of his successors, he would confess to a feeling of amusement at the foolishness of the latter-day "Corinthians," who do not see that so illogical an ucrease in the sums at stake endangers the reality of a contest, obviously making for a "frame-up" or corrupt labour-saving bargain on the part of two isshionable Catalogues will be issued.

Lots will be on View on afternoon of boxers. In the old days there was no luser's end of the purse.

Other ideas worthy of consideration would no doubt occur to the inarticulate 919 champion of fermer days if he could be made to discuss the Rone affair. He would shake his battered, shapeless head at the endless disborate braggadocio of the combatants. He would not be very pleased at hearing that women were allowed at the ring-lide. He would describe the conduct of the members of the .. Divorce Colony at Rene in vigorous Shakespearian terms. the language of an older morality. But what would awake in him an abysmal disgust, a nauses of the very soul, would be the news that spectators of the black-andwhite battle were searched for revolvers. soda-water bottles, and so forth-weapons which might conceivably be used by dis. appointed partisans in danger of losing their dirty bets for maining one or other of the fighters. He would be glad to remember that it has never been, nor ever will be, necessary to take such precautions for securing the prehistoric rudiments of fair play in the mother country of the not ignoble art of self-defence.

THE OLD STYLE AND THE NEW. To some extent modern glove-fighting is a less exacting business than the oldfashioned combination of fisticuffs and wrestling. But not, perhaps, to such a great extent as is generally imagined. The modern pugilist has gained a good deal, it is true, by being freed from the ever-recurring danger of the shattering fall which determined the issue of many an old-style contest.", He is now allowed to clinch, and 342 clinching with experts in the Americanized mothed is a form of "resting. Johnson, by the way, is a very clever exponent of the art of going to sleep in an opponent's arms and waking up refreshed when ejected by an effort that must use up some of the other man's reserve of power. Again, the fact that the latter-day fighter does not sacrifice so much of what was called " the ruby by the chroniclers of the old Prize Ring -those intolerable and interminable Euphuists-is obviously to his advantage. On the other side of the balance must be The owner is propared to sell the whole placed the much more intense pace of the modern glove-fight-and it is the pace that kills - and also the undeniable fact that a hit with the gloved hand may do more harm 904 than the cutting, blood-letting hit with maked knuckles, just as a blow with a sandbag may be more dang rous than a blow from an edged weapon. It follows that the changes in the code of prize-fighting have been attended with disadvantages for the modern pugilists as well as advantages, although it cannot be scriously desied that the latter outweigh the former. As has been said, these changes have virtually revolutionized the game. Yet behind the revolution a kind of evolution may be traced. In some respects the American boxers have improved on the traditional English style. Their scientific in-fighting, with its half-arm jolts and stabs, therrying with them the weight of the body turning as on a pivot, is a notable addition to the tactics of glove. fighting. Morsover, their system is based on a more scientific knowledge than was possessed by the old masters of the weak points in the average man's anatomy. And, however ugly it appears to admirers of the upstanding English style, the crouching attitude, which enables a man to cover all his weak points, is certainly an effectual form of defence, and does not diminish the power of offence so much as is generally There can be little doubt that the absolutely first-rate boxer of to-day invariably combines the best points of the English and American styles. It was so with Peter Jackson, the finest and most severe of glove-fighters, who was but a shadow of his former self when Jeffries beat him. It was so with Gans, who was the most accomplished light-weight ever seen—a very hard hitter and yet as elegant in his intistry as Mace in his prime. Driscoll is a modern example of classic grace combined with extraordinary powerof punishing. Pace and perfect timing (the latter as profitable a gift in boxing as in cricket) are the features of a fine and effective style, and the an-cient champions -from Belsher, who cut BRANCHER & ACREE ALL OVER THE WORLD, up his blood at ined shirts and sent fragments to his patrons, to Sayers, whose hits counded like the bursting of a box— sounded like the bursting of a box— soription of Banking and Exchange lossessed these gifts. But the latter had business, receives money in Current As ledge which was the basis of practice with following rates; such modern hitters as J. L. Sullivan and Fitzeimmons, the latter of whom had a left that would drill a hole in a boiler-plate. Beries of Articles on Bir Bossey Hirr's Bon same for the Improve But the modern glove-fighter of the classic type, does not depend on the knock-out blow, although he is always on the watch. of course, for an opportunity of delivering it and very esreful not to give his opponent the required opening .- The Times.

Ching, it is true, issued orders that a new incarnation of the ways, Dalai Lama should be proceeded with, but the order fell on deaf cars. The Tibetan people refused to replace the living ruler by the little child desired by the Chinese government, and so a deadleck was reached.

Great Britain quietly looked on while all these things were happening, having taken the stand that she was not called upon to interfere with the internal administration of Tibet, and it | St. John's Cathedral. was no doubt owing to this immunity from interference which emboldened China to put out her tentacles towards Sikkim, Bhutan and Nepaul. ALLEGED INHERENT VICE

The San Sang Yuda firm sued the Naviganione Generale Italiana, before Mr. Justice Hazeland at the Sayfeme Court this prorning, plaintitt's being holders of a billof lading dated November 29, 1909, for twenty-one bales of leather carried on board the s s. Ischia, of which defendants are the owners, from Penang to Hongkong, and claimed $701.51 as damages for a breach of the conditions of the bill of lading. Mr H. W. Looker appeared for plaintiffs and Mr G. C. Alabaster defended, instructed by Mr E. Jackson.

Mr Looker said that defendants, denied o everything except inherent vice. They admitted that the goods were not delivered in the same good condition in which they were received, and said any deterioration was caused by inherent vice. The effect of their pleadings was that they admitted that externally the leather was in good orderand condition. Under these circumstances the onus of proof lay with defendants.

Mr Alabaster said it was for plaintiff to begin. Mr. Looker had been at , pains to prove that the pleadings by defendants did not mean what they setout. Whatever injury the goods received was received before they got on board the ship. " His Lordship said it was for Mr Looker to begin.

Mr Looker said that plaintiff shipped on beard the defendants' ship twenty-one bales of leather. "There was a considerable stream of leather flowing to this Colony from Penang and Singapore, and externally to the eye it was red. When the particular consignment was put on board at l'enang it was red and when it arrived in Hongkong instead of being red, it was all black. The bill of lading expressly stated that the port of destination must be put on the leather in letters of a certain size or the ship owners wouldnot be responsible and that cast upon. the captain the duty of inspecting all the leather. That being a duty imposed upon him, which he was bound to presume he carried out, then he must have got some idea at least of the condition of the leather and he would immediately have detected if anything was wrong as some thousands of bales of leather come to Hongkong yearly. Other consignments of leather on the same a occasion were also black.

Evidence was called and the case was adjourned.

The tide table given below has been compiled at the Nantical Almanic Office London from the result of the analysis of observations taken by means of an au tomatic tide-recording machine in the Wa ter Polles Basin at Talm Sha Tsul during the years 1887-8-8.

The zero of the table corresponds with the zero of the soundings in the Admiralty Charts which has been found to be 4 feet inches below mean sea level. To obtain the depth of water on the tide gauge at the Victoria Naval Yard add . 8 feet 4 inches; and on the gauge at Lamon Dock, Aberdeen, add 10 feet 6 inches to the height given in the table.
